The vase follows the shape of oriental gourd vases. It is decorated with folkloric motifs taken from textiles of the Baranya county: rows of small and large flowers with two leaves.

The coloured design of this object can be found in the Janus Pannonius Museum in Pécs (Inv.No. A. 61.444.21, with façon number 531, decor number 153). Teréz Zsolnay's notebook (JPM Inv.No. 1578-91-1584) remarks at drawing No. 531: 1879. VII. D 153.

The vase is a nice example of the application of simple folklore motifs, but its real significance is in the iridescent cover: it is possibly one of the early reduction-fired metal lustres developed by Vilmos Zsolnay. The condition and position of the golden contour of the flowers excludes that the cover was only added later in the form of the eosin-covers of the 1890s, since gilding was only possible after the reduction-firing of the lustre.
