

Footed cup - With sulphide portrait of Napoleon and the badge of the Legion of Honour

Ceramics and Glass Collection

Accession Nr.:	53.594.1
Place of production:	France
Materials:	colourless lead glass
Techniques:	blown; embedded polychrome enamel; faceted; glass marquetry; grinded
Dimensions:	height: 11,5 cm opening diameter: 6 cm base diameter: 6 cm

The upturned bell-shaped bowl stands on a stem of eight faceted sides, which is supported by a broad, faceted, octagonal foot showing stylised leaf motifs. The cup is again faceted into eight sides one is decorated with an oval medallion showing the "sulphide" portrait of Napoleon. He is portrayed like the antique emperors, that is, in profile, with a laurel wreath around his head. The opposite side shows the badge of the Legion of Honour, founded by Napoleon in May 1802, made of gold foil with red and green enamel.

Literature

- Szerk.: Péter Márta: A klasszicizmustól a biedermeierig. Az európai iparművészet stíluskorszakai. Iparművészeti Múzeum, Budapest, 1990. - Nr. 2.27. (Varga Vera)

