The straight foot rim supports a softly twisted, slightly bulging body, divided into six irregular balls at the top, thus creating a wavy top rim. The relief ornaments are more significant at the top and melt into the ball-shaped body of the vase at the bottom. One of the figures holds a narrow, long, coiling veil in her raised right, the other figure is enframed by her own long hair. The transparent clothing reveals the figures, including their stepping left legs. From the hipline of the figures, the skirts spread in a curve around the vase, and melt into waves at the bottom. The background is bright, iridescent purple, the figures are matte, silky. The dark foot lightens up towards the top - the relief surface is painted with in very rich shades, despite the use of only one eozin glaze. There is a remark on design No. 6358 in the Zsolnay Façon book 10: «Geformt 39 cm hoch /Mack L. mintája» [modeled by Lajos Mack].
