The stand is supported by four legs that are slightly curved at the bottom. There are two square shelves of different size between the legs. A square stretcher connects the legs at the top, connected to a ring on each side. The juncture of the rings and the legs is enriched with a small, embossed, stylized flower. Ede Thoroczkai Wigand designed this flower stand in Marosvásárhely, for the Peremartoni family (according to the information of the former owner).
